

DRILLER KILLED TRYING TO SAVE ANOTHER'S LIFE

Workman Crushed by Cage
in Acqueduct 200 Feet
Under Broadway.

James Lynn, a driller, while attempting to save the life of a fellow workman, was caught and instantly killed this morning by a falling cage in shaft No. 19 of the aqueduct at Broadway and Twenty-fifth street.

Lynn, with Martin Lohney of No. 161 East Fifty-third street, and Louis Johnson, had been working at the 200-foot level of the shaft all night. They were waiting for the cage to take them to the surface.

The men were talking and laughing in the bottom of the shaft, directly under the cage. Lynn heard an unusual rattling of the chains attached to the cage and instantly divined that something was wrong. He glanced upward and cried to his companions to jump for their lives. Two cages work on a counterbalance in the shaft and one of these filled with rock was in the bottom. It was given a sudden and violent jerk, then went shooting up along the guide posts.

At Lynn's cry Lohney and Johnson jumped. Lynn and Johnson succeeded in clearing the shaft and getting beyond danger, but Lohney slipped and fell directly under the swiftly descending cage. Lynn turned and saw his plight. He ran back and grasped him, and with a jerk got him partly from under the falling cage.

Lynn, in his eagerness to aid his companion, gave no thought to his own safety. He was in a stooping position when the cage reached the bottom and the heavy structure struck him on the head, killing him instantly. His body saved Lohney, who escaped with a fracture of the left leg.

Johnson signalled to the street and another car was quickly lowered, carrying down several workmen. Lohney and the body of Lynn were carried to the top and laid in the shaft house until the arrival of Dr. Ward from the New York Hospital.

STOCK DEALER ACCUSED.

Washington Editor Declares $5,000 Securities Are Withheld.

William A. Williamson, a dealer in securities at No. 32 Wall street and living at Essex Falls, N. J., was held in $2,500 bail by Magistrate Appleton in Centre Street Court today, charged with the larceny of securities valued at $5,000.

John McElroy, editor of the National Tribune, in Washington, D. C., in his complaint says Williamson was ordered to purchase certain stock at the liquidation of the Carnegie Trust Company, in October, 1911. This he alleges Williamson did, on an order from the American National Bank at Washington, but at the time for a final settlement securities valued at $5,000 were not turned over by the agent.

PLEADS HER SONS MISLED AN HONEST STEPPFATHER.

Court Sends Two Sons and Husband to Jail Despite Novel Appeal.

We have Scriptural authority for the statement that the sins of the fathers shall be visited on their children. In the Court of General Sessions today Smith Saunders, a clean, bright-looking negro, thirty-six years old, furnished an example of the sins of stepchildren visited on their stepfathers.

Saunders married Mrs. Gilmore, five years his senior, five years ago. She has two sons, Lorenzo Gilmore, aged twenty, and Howard Gilmore, aged seventeen. The Gilmore boys, on Feb. 27, burglarized a house at No. 230 West Sixty-second street, and Saunders was arrested trying to dispose of the stolen goods. All three pleaded guilty before Judge O'Sullivan to-day. Mrs. Gilmore made a plea to the court on behalf of her husband.

"When I married Saunders," she said, "he was an honest man, and he was honest for a long time, but my boys led him astray. Lorenzo is a bad boy, and he first led his brother astray. Then both of them worked on Smith and broke down his honesty."

Saunders was sent to the penitentiary for six months. Lorenzo Gilmore, against whom stand two previous convictions, was sent to Sing Sing Prison, and Howard Gilmore was sent to Elmira Reformatory.
